Answer: Sirius ate the second most food.

Here's how: Polaris is the top eater because all other pups are described as eating less than someone else. Sirius comes in second, because she eats more than Pollux who eats more than either Rigel or Castor. Not enough information is given, by the way, to determine which pup is the leanest eater.

Bonus: What do the names of the five dogs have in common? (You may reread the names aloud for this question.)

Answer: They are all names of stars.
